

A cautiously optimistic view on large language model use against linguistic injustice in academia

In the format provided by the authors and unedited

TITLE PAGE

- Article type: Correspondence
- Title of the article: LLMs against Linguistic Injustice in Academia: A Cautiously Optimistic View
- Authorship:

1. Jon Rueda, PhD, Momentum Fellow, President's Cabinet and Ethics in Research Department, Spanish National Research Council, Spain.
2. Viktor Ivanković, PhD, Research Associate, Department of Practical Philosophy, Institute of Philosophy, Zagreb, Croatia.
3. Charlie Blunden, PhD, Senior Assistant (Postdoctoral Researcher), Department of Practical Philosophy, Institute of Philosophy, Zagreb, Croatia.

*Corresponding author: Jon Rueda. Contact information: jon.rueda@csic.es and ruetxe@gmail.com. Postal address: Serrano, 117, 28006 Madrid, Headquarters of Spanish National Research Council, basement floor, office 1116. ORCID: <https://orcid.org/0000-0001-5789-7515>. Personal webpage: <https://jonrueda.com/>.

- Keywords: Linguistic injustice; LLMs; academic writing; Generative AI; linguistic discrimination; research ethics; research integrity; AI literacy.
- Word count: 995 (excluding title and references).
- Number of references: 10.
- Funding:

JR's work is funded by the European Commission –NextGenerationEU, through Momentum CSIC Programme: Develop Your Digital Talent. VI thanks the funding of the project Artificial Intelligence, Autonomy and Justice, funded by the Croatian Science Foundation and hosted by the Institute of Philosophy, Zagreb (December 2023 – December 2027) under No. IP-2022-10-1130. CB thanks the funding of the project Moral Progress: Individual and Collective, funded by the Croatian Science Foundation and hosted by the Institute of Philosophy, Zagreb (December 2023 - December 2027 under No. IP-2022-10-5341).

- Conflict of interest:

The authors declare that the research was conducted in the absence of any commercial or financial relationships that could be construed as a potential conflict of interest.